

Coming in February

UNDER THE RADAR

 ROCKY RIVER
PUBLIC LIBRARY
Discover. Connect. Engage.

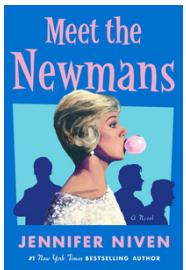

January 2026

Burn Down Master's House

Clay Cane

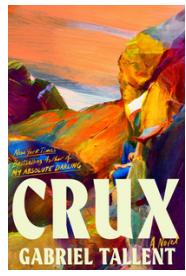

Luke and Henri are determined to escape the cruelty of a Virginia plantation. Their resistance sparks the fire within others as Josephine watches and waits, Charity fights for her freedom, and Nathaniel exploits other Black people to further his own cause.

Meet the Newmans

Jennifer Niven

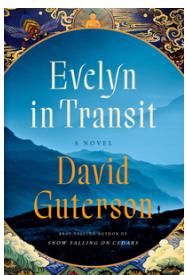

For two decades, Del and Dinah and their sons have ruled television as America's Favorite Family. Viewers tune in every week to watch them play flawless versions of themselves. But now it's 1964, and their perfection suddenly feels woefully out of touch.

Crux

Gabriel Tallent

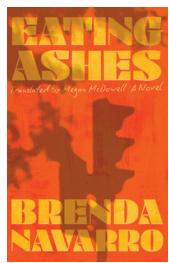

High school seniors Dan and Tamma dream of a life of adventure. Their carefree life in the Mojave Desert is threatened as the world of adult responsibilities closes in around them. As their decisions grow consequential, their friendship is rocked.

Evelyn in Transit

David Guterson

Evelyn has always been a misfit. She's easily bored, unsuited to school, asks odd questions, and sees through conventions others take for granted. Seeking to be true to herself, she hitchhikes across the American West.

Eating Ashes

Brenda Navarro

Alone and adrift in Barcelona, an unnamed narrator is haunted by the death of her teenage brother. Diego, the little boy she helped raise in Mexico. Now, his ashes in hand, she must return to Mexico.

Women of A Promiscuous Nature

Donna Everhart

On a brisk morning while walking to work, 24 year-old Ruth Foster is stopped by the local sheriff. He insists she accompany him to a clinic, threatening to arrest her if she doesn't undergo testing to preserve decency and prevent the spread of sexual disease.

The Sea Child

Linda Wilgus

Isabel, a destitute young widow returns to the village where she was found as a small child, dripping wet and alone. She's shocked to find herself at the center of a local legend claiming that she is the daughter of a sea spirit.

Song of Ancient Lovers

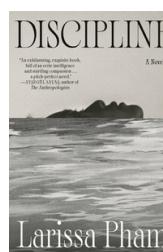

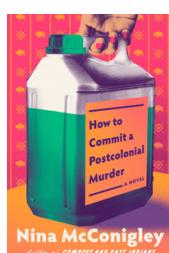

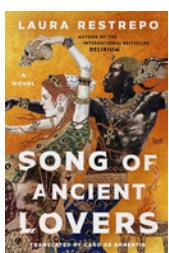

Laura Restrepo

Ethereal in its weaving of the real and the mythical, the contemporary and the ancient, this is the story of Bos Mutas, a young writer traveling from South America to northern Africa in search of traces of his obsession.

How to Commit a Postcolonial Murder

Nina McConigley

The Creel sisters, Georgie and Agatha, welcome their aunt, uncle and young cousin--newly arrived from India--into their house in rural Wyoming where they'll all live together. That is, until the sisters decide that it's time for their uncle to die.

The Last of Earth

Deepa Anappara

Balram is an Indian schoolteacher who, for several years, has worked for the British, often alongside his dearest friend, Gyan. But Gyan went missing and is rumored to be imprisoned. Desperate to rescue his friend, Balram agrees to guide an English captain on a foolhardy mission.

Jean

Madeleine Dunnigan

Seventeen-year-old Jean, a troubled Jewish boy in 1970s London, arrives at Compton Manor, a boarding school for boys with "problems." Dyslexic, angry, and on thin ice, he longs to escape. Then he meets Tom—confident, privileged—and their friendship turns romantic.

This House Will Feed

Maria Tureaud

In the scant few years since the potato blight, Maggie has lost everything--her entire family and the man she trusted. Toiling in the workhouse for paltry rations, she can see no future either within or outside its walls--until the mysterious Lady Catherine arrives.

Discipline

Larissa Pham

Christine is on tour for her novel, a revenge fantasy based on a real-life relationship gone bad. Now on the road, she's seeking answers--about how to live a good life and what it means to make art--through intimate conversations with strangers, past lovers, and friends.

Scavengers

Kathleen Boland

Bea prizes security and control over adventure - especially after being raised by free spirit Christy, who has recently been living in Utah on Bea's dime. But when Bea is fired from her job after taking an uncharacteristic risk, she books a one-way flight to Salt Lake City.